What is crazy, is we received an official offer from binance through their official email. They would even reply to us, and the Telegram user was verified through binance and being official.

We almost lost a fortune. Be very careful. Scammers are getting really good.

Have you realised the calls for exchanges to show proof of liabilities has gone quiet. They're counting on people to be like fish. Forget really quick. It amazes me that people actually believe the current markets are not being manipulated.

Billionaire Mark Cuban believes a shadowy form of market manipulation could be the next scandal to hit the cryptocurrency industry.

Now we're speaking the same language, working on several recommendations. Although ensuring central authorities have a reporting process, that means exchanges report the market maker trades. Make it illegal for market makers to trade without the trade being publicly shown.
